

SMa School of Management & SAFRA joint Scholarships Award

Asso Prof Koo, Minister of State Defence and President of SAFRA, an association formed in 1972, with the objective of helping the Singapore Armed Forces build morale and camaraderie amongst National Service men to foster a cohesive fighting force, announced that SAFRA will team up with Singapore Manufacturers Federation School of Management and SIM University (or UniSIM) to offer $110,000 in annual sponsorships, allowing members to choose from various courses, including business administration and security management.

Safra president and Minister of State Defence Koo Tsai Kee presenting the token of appreciation to Mr James Wong, CEO, SMa School of Management

"SMa is proud to be associated with SAFRA, the national organisation that provide quality social, recreational, sports and educational facilities in recognition of the hardwork and effort of our NSmen . This sponsorship reflects our commitment to establish SMa School of Management as a leader in the Education sector and is aligned with our vision to provide industry recognized qualifications for working professionals across various disciplines. This sponsorship will also serve as a vehicle to enhance SMa School of Management's image and awareness in the market ." added Mr James Wong.